4. South Africa has a fantastic national park, the Kruger national Park. Read the following text. Put the missing words into the right places: _____5 points

Established in 1898 and now 1.....140 different animal species, the Kruger attracts nearly a million visitors 2..... The majority visit the south and central areas of the park, staying in a large number of National Park-run rest camps. These 3..... can get very busy – and with all vehicles restricted to the road network, this does detract from the game-viewing experience. Therefore, we recommend staying in one of the many private reserves or concession areas, large areas of park leased to reputable operators.Both private reserves and concession areas offer great game and some of the finest camps in Africa. Predominantly 4..... on the west side of the park, they have access to the main park but tend to stick to their own reserves. Many of these consist of several thousand hectares, where guests can go off road to 5..... closer to game. A number of reserves are known also for their specialism in lion- and leopard tracking.

7. Antarctica: explorers Amundsen and Scott both targetted to reach the South Pole in the years of 1911-12. One of them arrived first and his expedition survived, the other did not. Still today the Anctarctic gives home to a famous research centre bearing both of their names.

Compare and contrast Amundsen's and Scott's expedition. Make a table of the information given on the internet that can clearly define the different attitudes the two had. /20 points
